Vienna papers report the rapid spread of the new insurrection in Bosnia. Some severe fighting has already occurred.

The great English university boat-race was rowed over the usual course on the Thames, last week, Cambridge defeating Oxford by a little more than three lengths.

A dispatch to the London Times from Odessa represents that the insurrection in Bosnia and Croatia is assuming dangerous proportions. The majority of insurgents are veterans of the Austrian militia. The Governor of Bosnia has advised the proclamation of holy war. He has been recalled. The intelligence is so alarming that the Bussian Government is afraid to publish it in Odeesa.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Allegemein Zeitung maintains that the Czar really intended to abdicate, but the idea was abandoned in consequence of restoration of his health.

Affairs on the Rio Grande are getting decidedly interesting. A fight recently occurred between Mexicans and Americans, in which three of the former and two of the latter were killed. The fight was about branding cattle. On the 10th inst. the Mexicans at New Laredo opened fire upon the American citizens and soldiers across the river, wounding several persons. A hot fight ensued between Mexican and United States troops on opposite sides of the river, the latter throwing shells at a lively rate into the Mexican town.

Dispatches from Salt Lake City, Utah, give the particulars of a tremendous explosion of powder that occurred in the suburbs of the Mormon capital one day last week. On Arsenal Hill was located four magazines, in which were stored a vast amount of blasting powder. Two boys were out gunning for ducks, and it is supposed fired into one of the magazines, causing all of them to explode almost simultaneously, and with frightful effect. All over the city windows were shattered, doors blown from their hinges, chimneys blown down, and many buildings

It is stated from Washington that the President has at last become convinced that "he has been deceived by Babcock and others in very many things during the entire course of his administration, and that he will soon take occasion in some decistve way to convince the public of this fact."

MISCELLANEOUS GLEANINGS.

The Washington authorities are confident that the revolutionary chief, Gen. Diaz, will succeed in his attempt to overthrow Lerdo, President of Mexico.

It is stated from Washington that Secretary Fish has instructed Mr. Hoffman, in charge of the American Legation in London, to notify the British Government that the United States peremptorily refuses to concede the condition imposed in the case of Winslow—that he shall be tried only on the charge for which he is extradited-and to further give notice that the enforcement of this condition will be regarded by our Government as an abrogation by Great Britain of the tenth article of the treaty of 1842, and that hereafter the United States will dechne to extradite persons charged with the ommission of crimes upon British soil.

State Board of Health.

The third annual report of the Secretary of the State Board of Health has just been published. It is for the year ending Sept. 30, 1875; has a little over 200 pages, and cor besides the report proper of the Secretary, Dr. H. B. Baker, eleven special papers on subject closely related to the public health. The Lansing Republican prints an abstract of each of these papers, but we can find room for only the titles, as follows: "Local Boards of Health," by Dr. Homer O. Hitchcock, of Kalamazoo; "Poisons in Agriculture," by Dr. R. C. Kedzie; "Trichine," by Dr. Arthur Hazlewood, of Grand Sapids; "Influence of Occupations upon Health," by Rev. C. H. Brigham, of Ann Arbor; "The Disposal of Human Excrets," by the President of the Board, Dr. H. O. Hitchcock : two short papers, one entitled " Failure to Prevent Deaths believed to have been Preventible," and the other on "The Reproduction of Disease Germs," both by Dr. Henry B. The Lansing Republican editor has this to say of the contents of the book: "In Dr. Baker's portion is given, first, a synopsis of the work of the board during the year, including abstracts of the minutes of the regular meetings : blank forms, circulars, etc., issued ; and a financial statement which shows that during the year the expenditures of the State on account of the board including the salary of its secretary, who is ex-officio superin'endent of vital statistics, amounted to only the meager sum of $3,734.21. A set of sanitary rules recommended for adoption by local boards of health are printed in full, followed by remarks and suggestions concerning the same. The subject of vaccination is dwelt upon at some ength, and interesting correspondence is given, including a letter from Haratune, a preacher of Bitlis, Turkey in Asia, relative to the terrible ravages of small pox in that country, where vaccination is not general. Arguments are given in a most lucid and forcible manner of the efficiency of this greatest discovery of preventive hygiene. The subject of illuminating oils is touched upon, and the efforts of the board to secure safety in their use are briefly reviewed. Cases of burning and death from kerosene, which have recently occurred in this State, are narrated, and a series of experiments with different kinds of lamps, burners, broken chimneys, etc., performed by Dr. Baker, with the assistance of H. H. Larned, are detailed."

Dolan's Good Fortune.

Ed. Dolan, of Marshall, conductor of the Michigan Central way freight, is in luck. The 24th of March he received a letter from Australia from the American Consul informing him that his wife was heir to $250,000 in real estate, bank stock and money, by the death of her father, Thomas Cody. "Ed" has resigned his position as conductor, and will start in into three logs fourteen feet each in length a few weeks for Australia to look after his wife's inheritance. Thomas Cody, who was rather a singular sort of an Irishman. left Marshall at the time of the first gold excitement in California for the new Eldorado. After remaining in California for many years he departed for Australia. His wife and daughter heard from him but a few times after he left Marshall-once through a gentleman who returned to Marshall from Australia, and who reported Cody to be still living, and possessed of considerable property. About a year ago an Australian newspaper announced the death of ore Thos. Cody, and advertised for heirs of his estate, which, according to the laws of that country, would go to the Government after having been advertised a certain length of time if no heirs were found. It appears that some person, seeing a chance to acquire a fortune, forged a will and claimed Cody's entire estate. But the man was detected, and is now in prison for the crime of forgery. Cody left no will. By some means a chance copy of the Australian paper fell into the hands of Dolan. He put the matter into the hands of lawyers, who forwarded proofs of his wife's heirship. After a long delay he received the letter, as stated above, from the American consul, who gave him full information in regard to Cody's estate,

A family living on Franklin street, numbering seven or eight persons, are nearly all hard drinkers, and all of them patronize one saloon. A day or two ago the saloon-keeper found that the father was owing him four or five dollars, and he determined to shut down on the credit system. When the toper next called in he was informed of the change of base. He received the news coolly, asking:

"Don't all my family drink here! "They do," was the answer.
"And don't all my family seem to love

"They do."
"Well," said the old man, "I'll go home and say to my wife: Betsy, I am going to stop drinking whisky and start bank-book. Chip in with me.' She'll chip, because she loves me. Then I'll say to Jim: 'Jim, if you must drink, and if the other boys must drink, chip in and buy your whisky by the barrel, for its a hundred per cent. cheaper.' They'll chip, for they'll do as I say. Then the next thing you'll chip out of the sheriff will chip your things for debt, and you'll be a chopped up chip."

"You don't owe me anything," replied the saloon-keeper, drawing his pencil across the account. "Now, then, what'll you have?"—Detroit Free Press.

An Active Centenarian.

Sabert Oglesby, of Coryelle county, Tex., claims to have been 100 years old the 11th day of February last. He was at the battle of New Orleans, and claims to have commanded the division next to the river. He draws a pension from the United States Government. His sight and hearing are both bad, but he is quite active for his age, cutting wood neces-sary for fires, and carrying it into the HON. ROBERT C. WINTHROP, of BCston, has accepted the Presidency of the Washington National Monument Association. He wants that memorial finished without delay.

"THE only way to look at a lady's faults," exclaimed a super-gallant, "is to shut your eyes."
